FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

San Francisco / October 2009 – Me No Speak announces its illustrated China travel language companion is now available for the iPhone and iPod Touch on the Apple App Store for $3.99 per download. There are more than 750 flashcards that cover everything from finding a toilet to changing money, arranging transportation and accommodation, ordering food, shopping, and obtaining medical care. Topics include: General help, Food & drink, Getting around, Accommodation, Shopping, Health & safety. With a special focus on helping China travelers find and order food, this application offers a comprehensive collection of 13 menu categories that includes specialized content for vegetarians and people with food allergies.

Me No Speak for the iPhone is currently offered for English speakers traveling in China, with applications for Japan, Korea, Thailand, and Turkey on the way.

About Me No Speak

The Me No Speak founders designed the phrase book they wished they had while traveling in foreign countries. Designed for quick and easy communication, Me No Speak helps travelers make their needs known by pointing at what they want to say instead of struggling with a foreign language. Titles focus on countries with hard-to-speak languages and unfamiliar alphabets, and have been developed from the founders' own communication needs while on the road, resulting in an highly customized and relevant collection of translations.

In addition to its China travel language companion for the iPhone, Me No Speak offers three titles in print: China, Japan, and Thailand. Each has been carefully researched, translated by native speakers, and field tested by the Me No Speak founders and authors. Me No Speak language companions are available for purchase on www.menospeak.com.
